Sorrow to All

EDITOR'S NOTE—Col. J. A. Watrous, the gifted soldier-journalist, whose letters are familiar to Wisconsin readers, was a comrade and intimate friend of the late Col. G. M. Woodward. By a special arrangement Colonel Watrous has written the following reminiscences of Colonel Woodward in the Civil War.

It was my fortune to serve in the same brigade with the late Colonel Woodward. We both started as privates soon after Mr. Lincoln's first call, and each became adjutant, Woodward of the Second Wisconsin, and I of the Sixth. Both were printers. The facts are mentioned as evidence that in speaking of the departed printer, soldier, lawyer, statesman, friend and man, I am not without facts and acquaintance essential in a suitable and truthful reminiscence.

I first saw Gilbert M. Woodward early in August, 1861, when the Second marched from the Virginia side of the Potomac to Kalorama Heights, then near Washington, now a beautiful residence portion of the city, to become a part of General Rufus King's brigade. The other three regiments of the brigade at that time were the Fifth and Sixth Wisconsin and the Nineteenth Indiana. The second had been in service; been in the battle of Bull Run, and its uniforms, gray at that time, as were ours, were badly shattered. Half of the men, Woodward of the number, were not so well clad that knees, shins or other portions of their bodies were not exposed. The second looked upon the rest of the brigade as kindergartners, as it were, and for a time "put on airs." We returned with a name that is still well remembered. They were branded as the "Ragged Backed Second." Some of them resented, but Gil Woodward of Company B laughed and pronounced it a most appropriate designation. It certainly was.

Not long after that Private Woodward became orderly sergeant, the most trying position in a company. He was one of forty such sergeants in the brigade and one of the most popular, for he was a model officer. Many of the forty captains, after choosing an orderly sergeant said to him, "Get in touch with Gil Woodward; talk with him about his duties, watch him perform them and then do your work as nearly as Woodward does his as possible." Woodward filled the position so well and pleased the 100 men of the company so well, that when there was a vacancy in the office of second lieutenant no one else was thought of for the commission. With his new uniform and shoulder straps he was easy enough one of the finest looking officers in the brigade.

SAYS PASTEUR METHOD WILL END EPILEPSY

CHICAGO, March 18.—That epilepsy, in thousands of instances, is caused by the bite of a rabid dog and will respond to the Pasteur treatment for hydrophobia, was announced by Dr. E. Patrick Machler, superintendent of Iroquois Memorial hospital, today.

"I notice that almost all epileptics who came to me for treatment had some history of a dog bite at some time," said Dr. Machler. "We have treated 119 victims of epilepsy in the same manner we treated victims of dog bites and have not heard of one case in which the attacks returned."

HURON, S. D., March 18.—Bitter attack on all progressives who have been trying to effect a reconciliation between the republican and progressive wings was made in a speech here last night by Gifford Pinchot, ex-forester and Pennsylvania senatorial candidate.

Regarding the republican party Pinchot said: "Disloyal to its traditions and its record, split into factions, contentious, unhappy, weak, its last days are upon it."

Of progressive leaders he said: "Cummins: Personally upright, he is hopelessly out of touch with the political thought of the day."

Borah: "He has earned and well earned the pitying contempt of all men of all parties who believe that principles are things to stand by even to a man's own hurt. Stable as water, Borah can never excel."

Bristow: "He has broken his own career because he was afraid."

Hadley: "We lost at Chicago because Hadley tried to force his own nomination."

La Follette: "There is hardly a more striking example in American history of the decay of a great career by the setting of personal ambition and private animosity before the will of the people and public good."

New York Assemblyman

York State Leave

ALBANY, N. Y., March 18.—The fight to free Harry K. Thaw, millionaire slayer of Stanford White, was shifting today from the federal courts in New Hampshire to the New York legislature.

John B. Golden, wealthy assemblyman from the Bowers, author of two resolutions "calling off" this state's persecution of Thaw, was today "sounding out" fellow members of the assembly on their attitude toward the resolutions. From promises made to him by members of all three parties he believes his resolutions will be favorably considered.

For weeks Golden has been collecting data showing how much money the state has spent prosecuting Thaw and he declares the sum will be startling. If Senator Frawley's bill appropriating nearly $44,000 for legal expenses incurred by the state in the Thaw case since his escape from Matteawan asylum is passed by the senate and comes to the assembly, Golden will fight it bitterly.

In analyzing Deputy Attorney General Jerome's bill today, Golden declared Jerome was asking $23,750 profit for his work endeavoring to bring Thaw back to Matteawan.

ATTEMPT TO TURN HIS FLANK

Rebel Chieftain Is Hard Pressed to Preserve Base
at Escalon in Torreón Campaign

MEXICO CITY, March 18.—In squads of a dozen men each, 149 mutineers were taken from the federal barracks at Joluita today, lined up against a stone wall and executed.

It required less than half an hour for the slaughter of the men who rebelled at service in the army of General Huerta. The firing squad worked rapidly and pumped bullets into the bodies of their former comrades as fast as they were lined up.

Bodies Piled High
Bodies were piled high along the wall when the last squads were brought out and those sentenced to death stumbled over the forms of those who had faced the rifles of the executioners only a few minutes before. With the last mutineer dead the bodies were buried in one trench.

That John Lind may have a chance to size up the man selected by General Huerta to become temporary executive head of the government in case the dictator should decide to go to the front, Portillo Rojas, minister of foreign relations, will meet President Wilson's special envoy in Vera Cruz tomorrow.

Huerta was immensely pleased with reports from Escalon which told of rebel reverses.

Villa Hard Pressed
EL PASO, Texas, March 18.—That General Francisco Villa's headquarters at Escalon, the constitutional base of supplies for the battle against Torreón, are being hard pressed by the federalists is based on the fact that not a single word of news regarding the battle raging there has been allowed to come out of Chihuahua and the south for twenty-four hours. The last dispatch however, was fraught with important advice. A local correspondent, using a harmless looking code, sent through news that Villa was compelled to fight desperately against a federal attack at Escalon and that federalists from Torreón were attempting to get to the rear of the constitutional army by coming to Guiney, forty miles north of Escalon. The federalists advanced towards that point through the valley Rio Florida were proceeding rapidly when they encountered Gen. Tomas Urbina's rebel force at Rosario.

Rumor General Is Killed
In Huerta circles here a rumor was current last night that General Eugenio Aguirre Benavides, whose Zaragoa brigade has borne the brunt of the battle which had raged since Saturday near Escalon, was killed yesterday.

Should Villa's center be driven from Escalon, it would naturally fall back to Rellano Pass, which has been the scene of two decisive battles since the Mexican revolutions began three years. If Villa should succeed in getting his artillery to Rellano he could stay there as long as his ammunition held out, regardless of how many federalists were sent against him. He would find rifle pits, even fortifications ready made, left over from two great battles fought there in March 1912.

LA CROSSE WELL REPRESENTED

Commercial Organizations

Who Speak Before Big Meeting

(By Staff Correspondent)
CALEDONIA, Minn., March 18.—One hundred businessmen, sixty of whom were delegates from surrounding towns, attended the meeting held here today to protest against the removal by the Milwaukee road of the second passenger train on the Reno-Preston branch which leaves La Crosse at 8:45 o'clock in the morning and returns at 5:55 o'clock in the afternoon.

Without an exception the delegates opposed the proposed removal of the train and promised the co-operation of their respective communities in the program to retain the passenger.

It was unanimously decided that each interested town send big delegations here on April 7 to attend the hearing before the Minnesota warehouse and railroad commission.

La Crosse represented
The La Crosse delegation and the organizations represented were as follows:
F. W. Sisson, Secretary C. S. Van Auker and M. J. Ellingson, Jobbers and Manufacturers' club.
N. M. Scott, La Crosse Retail Merchants' Protective association.
Secretary J. L. Utermoehl, La Crosse Board of Trade.
J. A. Elliott, La Crosse Council No. 94, United Commercial Travelers.

Preston, Harmony, Canton, Mable, Spring Grove and Brownsville, all Minnesota towns, were represented. These are the towns on the branch and the places which would be most vitally affected by the taking off of the train.

The meeting this morning was held in the village opera house and W. D. Belden, a Caledonia druggist, presided as chairman.
Messrs. Van Auker, Utermoehl, Scott and Elliott spoke for the La Crosse people.
Mr. Scott pointed out that while the retention of the train was not a direct benefit to the retail merchants it was of immense value to La Crosse manufacturers and jobbers. The other gentlemen made strong arguments against removal and these arguments were founded on points well taken. All promised the assistance of their various organizations in the program to fight the removal of the train at the hearing to be held here April 7 by the Minnesota warehouse and railroad commission.

OUTLINES CASE

The meeting at noon adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon when O. K. Dahle, president of the Caledonia Commercial club appeared before the meeting and outlined, briefly, the case which the protesters plan to present to the commission. Resolutions were also drafted protesting against the proposed action of the railroad and copies of these will be transmitted to the commission.

TA NGO CABARET AT THE HOTEL STODDARD WITH SATURDAY NIGHT LUNCH

La Crosse is going to have its tango cabaret with all the novel features, dash and "class" which accompany the demonstration of the modern dances in the big city cafes and hotels.

Saturday night from 7:30 until 9 o'clock in the dining room at the Hotel Stoddard Miss Helen O'Rourke and her brother, M. J. O'Rourke, Dubuque, Iowa, will demonstrate the new dances. The program includes the tango, castle walk, one-step, hesitation and others, and is to be an entertaining feature of Saturday night luncheons to be served by the hotel management.

Miss O'Rourke is not unknown to the dancing world and for twelve years has been in charge of the Keeley Dancing hall at the Hotel Julian in Dubuque. She studied the tango and French instructors. Bourne, one of the most renowned of French instructors.

Miss O'Rourke and her brother will start a dancing class in La Crosse Monday night. Anyone wishing to learn the new dances should be at the Elks hall, Fifth and State streets, on that evening.

CAILLAUX DEFENSE

"UNWRITTEN LAW"

Most Noted Attorney in France Undertakes to Defend Slayer Wife of Cabinet Minister

Refuses Food and Is Deeply Affected by Demonstration Against Himself and Husband

PARIS, March 18.—While sporadic demonstrations against her husband were occurring in the streets of Paris today, Mme. Caillaux, who has brought France to the verge of a political crisis by the slaying of Gaston Calmette, editor of the Figaro, sat on a little iron cot in her cell in St. Lazare prison brooding and weeping.

Refuses Food
The beautiful woman who disrupted a cabinet and caused her husband's retirement as minister of finance is deeply affected by the street demonstrations. She ate but little today. Two nuns remained constantly near her cell, but she asked for no favors and scarcely noticed them. Food was brought to her from a restaurant, but this she refused. The maids sent from the Caillaux home to attend her were sent away.

The factional strife and public sentiment aroused by the killing of Calmette and the charges against Caillaux are growing more bitter hourly. The police continued their vigilance in the determination to prevent any serious outbreak, and crowds that gathered were speedily dispersed.

Maurice Dewarlett, editor of the Paris Midl, in a savage article today declared that Mme. Caillaux must go to prison.

"I have more respect for a street walker than her in her silks," the editorial declared.

"Unwritten Law" Defense
Fairly overshadowing the present political situation is the certainty that the defense will be the "unwritten law." Maitre Labori, one of the most noted attorneys in France, has agreed to defend Mme. Caillaux "for the sake of humanity." He was a friend of Calmette, but said the fact that the accused was a woman and without friends led him to accept her case.

With such a defense as is planned efforts will be directed toward showing the justification for the slaying of Calmette by Mme. Caillaux in defense of her own name and to shield her daughters. The airing of political intrigues, and the shaking of the entire administration, is promised by the fight that will be made to save Mme. Caillaux.

Night Goes Over Details of La Crosse Man's Senatorial Campaign

Says Agitation in Various Counties Can Be Traced to Reactionaries; Only Few Recruits

That the political situation in Wisconsin, from a progressive republican standpoint, is good and that the "high tax" agitation now being attempted in some sections can be traced directly to the camp of the stalwarts, were statements made this morning by Col. John J. Hannan, private secretary to Senator Robert M. La Follette.

Col. Hannan for the last three weeks has been in Wisconsin and during that time has made a complete canvass of the state. His visit to La Crosse was for the purpose of conferring with Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris and to "feel out" sentiment in this section.

Senator La Follette's representative, it is known, was closeted for several hours last night with Mr. Morris and, it is understood, preliminary arrangements for the latter's campaign for the senate gone over in detail.

This morning Col. Hannan visited friends of Senator La Follette here among those visited being former Assemblyman John E. McConnell, Senator Otto Bosshard and E. M. Wing. "I find conditions in Wisconsin, as a whole, encouraging," said Col. Hannan to a Tribune reporter. "It is true that in some sections there is more or less agitation against the 'high taxes' but in every instance this agitation can be traced to the stalwart crowd. It is the old gang of reactionaries with the same old story that has been brought into play in every campaign since Emanuel Phillips organized the 'Eleventh Story league.'"

FORMER RESIDENT ALLEGED SUICIDE

Arthur E. Howard Found Dead in Chicago of Overdose of Drug

RELATIVES SCOUT THE THEORY

Brother Here Says He Wrote Cheerful Letter
to Son Few Hours
Before Death

The body of Arthur E. Howard, Chicago druggist, formerly employed as clerk at the Eagle drug store, 318 Main street, who was found dead in a Chicago rooming house, will arrive here at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Think Case Suicide
According to word received by relatives here, Howard was believed by Chicago officials to have committed suicide owing to ill health and family troubles with his wife, who is residing at Benton Harbor, Mich. Death was due to an overdose of a drug.

William C. Howard, 1108 South Seventh street, brother of the dead man, today declared that it is highly improbable that suicide was intended. Howard, he says, was found dead Sunday morning and on Monday his thirteen year old boy, residing here, received a long cheerful letter from his father which was written within eight or ten hours of Howard's death.

In the letter Mr. Howard asked his son to write him a letter and discussed trifling family affairs in a manner that would give the impression that he was not contemplating any rash deed.

Lived Here for Years
Arthur Howard resided in La Crosse for years, and was the son of E. Howard, former owner of the Eagle drug store. He left La Crosse fifteen years ago, and has since been residing in Chicago. Since the separation of himself and his wife, a few months ago, his son has been staying with William C. Howard of this city.

W. I. Howard, another brother of the dead man who lives in Minneapolis, left for Chicago Sunday to take charge of the body which will be brought to La Crosse for burial.

Mr. Howard is survived by his wife and son, two brothers, W. C. Howard of La Crosse and W. I. Howard of Minneapolis, and two sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Petter and Miss Elizabeth Howard of Minneapolis.

NATIONAL CHIEF

OPENS CONVENTION

Dr. George B. Warren of Chicago First Speaker at Spiritualist State
Meet

The fourteenth annual convention of the Wisconsin State Spiritualist association opened with a private session at the Masonic temple at 10 o'clock this morning when Dr. George B. Warren of Chicago, president of the National Spiritualist association, addressed the delegates on "The Needs of the Hour for Spiritualism."

Twenty delegates from various cities and towns throughout the state were in attendance at this morning's meeting and others are expected today.

Following Dr. Warren's address Dr. Manning, president of the state association, delivered greetings to the visiting delegates. Committees on rules and credentials were appointed as follows: Miss M. Pribbenow, Woneoc; Mrs. Hattie Smith, Milwaukee; Dr. J. Marvin, White-water; Mr. T. G. Hostak, Madison; Mrs. Cora Barge, Union Center; Rev. Catherine McFarlin, La Crosse.

This afternoon's session opened with the continuation of committee appointments. Officers of the association will be elected at the Friday afternoon session.

The address of welcome on behalf of the city will be delivered this evening by Mayor Sorensen and Dr. E. H. Manning will respond. Rev. Thomas Grimshaw will be the chief speaker of the evening. It was announced today that certain of the delegates may hold communication with the spirits during the open sessions.

NOTICE TO FARMERS

Farmers who have received cards and expect to attend the Community Banquet on March 24, should return their cards at once, announcing their intention of being present. The dining hall seats three hundred. There are twenty thousand farmers in the community. Obviously, all could not be invited to a single banquet, and it is planned to adjust this point by inviting a separate set of farmers to each succeeding banquet. For every farmer who has received an invitation to the banquet on the twenty-fourth, and who has not signified his intention of attending, a substitute will be invited. Hence it is important that every farmer who expects to be present notify the committee to that effect by the first available mail.

Hats and Politeness.

"French and German hats," said a hatter, "only last half as long as ours. It isn't the poor quality of the hats, but the fine quality of the manners that causes this. Lifting the hat in salutation is the hardest work that falls to the headpiece and the French and Germans lift it to men and women equally, thus giving it twice as much labor as we do. Naturally, then, it wears out twice as quickly. It goes in the bin in no time over the water."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Conscience.

A man's first care should be to avoid the reproaches of his own heart; his next to escape the censures of the world. If the last interfere with the former it ought to be entirely neglected, but otherwise there cannot be a greater satisfaction to an honest mind than to see those approbations which it gives itself seconded by the applause of the public. A man is more sure of his conduct when the verdict which it passes upon his own behavior is thus warranted and confirmed by the opinion of all that know him.—Addison.

Short Story

THE CONDUCT OF DAD

BY IOLA FORRESTER.

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"The girl married Tom for his money. It was a straight, deliberate scheme to get him, with her mother and herself ever since he made that overland trip with them in their car. Now she's got him fast and sure, and it's all she will get that belongs to me."

Yates leaned back with an air of complete satisfaction. Across from him sat his sister, Mrs. Devereux, listening with raised eyebrows, and a quizzical little smile to "the big boy rage," as she called it. He had sent for her to take this trip with him. He wanted, so he said, to see just what sort of fool Tom was making of himself, and he needed company, company that would be a sustaining influence, although he would not have acknowledged it to himself.

"Don't you know what he is doing down here at all, Bob?"

"Living on my name, I suppose," said Yates grimly.

"That isn't like Tom."

"He's not had one cent from me since the day I heard he'd married Trix Evarden. He couldn't take one of our western girls, you know, Nell. He had to go and marry this Norfolk belle. Belle! Oh, yes," Bob Yates chuckled. "She'll have a fine chance trying to be a belle out here. If she'd loved the boy it would be a different thing, but I'll bet you now, Nell, after a year of married life that she's out and run back to the sunny south, and Tom's hanging around as the junior Yates, pulling the credulity of these trusting Arizonans."

The train was running slowly. It was nearly noon. Mrs. Devereux yawned behind her hand and glanced out of the window at the monotony of barren hills with scattered bunches of mosquito-like tufts of scrub locks here and there. There was no sign of life except the existence of some long sheds at one side of the track and a small train shack and platform. Here the train pulled up. There was a girl standing on the platform dressed in a short khaki riding skirt and blouse. She caught a box the express agent tossed down to her and gave him a list, talking and smiling up at him.

"How's things going, Miss Yates?" called out the conductor from the car steps.

Yates sat bolt upright, and put his head out of the window. So did Mrs. Devereux, with an utter lack of appearances.

"Pretty good, thanks. We've not lost a single case this week, but Tom's not feeling well today, so I rode down after the medicine. Wish I could get some ice and a real doctor who wasn't afraid to come up there with me."

"Suffering Moses!" murmured old Yates, seizing his suitcase and cap from the rack overhead. "Come along, Nell."

So it happened that when the eastern train pulled out of San Ysabel, it left on the narrow platform the president of the Alvarado Smelter company, facing the bride of his disowned son, and looking mighty uncomfortable under the ordeal. But he didn't give himself away. Even Mrs. Devereux had to smile at the dexterous tact with which he avoided all personalities. He was interested in a business way in that part of the country, he explained. He had just heard what she said to the trainmen, and had wished to know what the real trouble was and where it was.

"It's an outbreak of fever among the men in my husband's engineering camp up in the hills back of here," she said. "He is Tom Yates, mining engineer with the eastern interests."

"I heard you say you needed a doctor and medicine."

"I should say we do," smiled the girl wistfully. "I've wired east for help from the company, but it takes a lot of red tape before anything can get through here."

Yates stared down at her for an instant, lips set, his face in deep lines around mouth and jaw. Then he turned to the lanky young station agent.

"You wire for a special with doctors, nurses and complete outfit, see, for a fever camp, and you sign the wire with my name, R. G. Yates."

Trix's face lost its smile. She stepped back, head a bit raised, but before she could speak the words on her lips Nell Devereux had tossed conventionality to the four winds.

"Don't be a little goose, Trix. You can afford to be generous to poor old Bob, because you've won out on all points. I am delighted to welcome you into the family. How do we get up to this fever camp of yours? Must I ride?"

Tears filled Trix's blue eyes. Old Yates was smiling over at her as he sat on a baggage truck, arranging details with the station agent. This was Tom's terrible day who had cut him off from every channel of love or help from the day of their marriage. She thought of the months of struggling for a foothold, of how they had happened on this chance with the Kennedy-Lawton interests, through one of Tom's college friends, and of her own lonely life up at the barren camp in the hills.

"Don't do it, girlie," Bob said, a bit gruffly, when he had finished, and joined them. "Cut out the sobs. That time is over. I'll bet you never thought of it then. I've been several kinds of an old fool, but I'm here now on the job, and you needn't worry another minute. We'll take care of the boy, and his camp, and you, too."

Trix looked up at him with laughing shyness through her tears. "And the baby, too?"

"Great suffering Moses!" said Bob Yates. "The what?"

"We've named him Bob, too."

Yates turned to the station master. "I'll give you twenty more if you'll rush that team here, and get me up to the camp just as quick as the mules can trot."

"And I'll ride on ahead to break the news to Tom," Trix said, happily. "I'm awfully glad you've both come at this time."

"So are we, child. God bless you, so are we," exclaimed Yates, warmly, grasping her hand in his. He watched her go to where her pony waited for her, slip the bridle over its head, take a grip on the horn, and swing easily into the Mexican saddle, lastly, turning to wave goodbye.

"Well, Bob," asked Mrs. Devereux cheerfully. "Now what do you think?"

"Think?" answered Yates. "I think the boy's got mighty fine taste, that's all. But the idea of them naming the kid for me—say, Nell, he broke off, 'we'll just let on to Tom that we were on our way to help him out. The boy needn't know everything. Did you see the way she could ride, that girl from Norfolk?"

"Yes, I saw," laughed his sister. "And I think she's a darling, too. I hope that Tom will be as generous as she was."

Yates grinned contentedly, looking through half-shut eyes at the

The Queen Bought the Pin.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Life of
The Queen's
Pretty Pin.

"ONCE when I was a little boy," began daddy, "I heard an interesting story that a pin told. Now, you may think that a pin could not tell such a very good story, but this was an exceptional pin, belonging to a very grand person. Would you like to hear it?"

"Of course we would!" said Jack and Evelyn. "Do tell it to us this evening." So daddy began as follows:

"Having been made into a beautiful crown shaped pin of superb pearls," said the pin, "I was put into a show case in a very beautiful jewelry shop. People would notice me above all other pins in the case and pick me out as being by far the most beautifully set pin. All the pearls which belonged to me were very, very lovely ones. But I was so expensive that people could just look at me and could not afford to buy me."

"The jeweler was so proud of me that he really did not care whether I was sold or not, for my beauty attracted so much attention that it was a help to his business. You see, people would ask one another if they had seen me, and if they hadn't they would come right to the shop to look at me. Then, though they didn't buy me, they would be sure to buy something else in the shop."

"But at last a marvelous carriage drove up before the door. It was drawn by four horses, and there were two fine coachmen and two very pompous looking footmen sitting up on top of the carriage."

"The jeweler was all in a flutter. Never before had he seen such a wonderful carriage. And out of it stepped a very handsomely dressed lady with a lady on either side of her, who both guarded her very carefully."

"The queen—the queen has come to my little shop!" cried the excited jeweler, and all the other shoppers stood by and made low bows.

"But I didn't bow. I didn't think a crown need bow."

"The queen had heard of me, and she had come to buy me. The jeweler, with trembling fingers, fastened me in my little blue velvet box, and off I went, carried by the queen."

"When we reached the palace I felt very much at home, for everything was so beautiful there. I must confess, though, that I did feel a little nervous, that first evening when I was worn by the queen with so many other exquisite jewels."

"Oh, but such times as I did have! The court dinners and balls and receptions were so dazzling, and I adored them. But, best of all, I loved the parades and seeing all the crowds of people cheer and wave their handkerchiefs to the queen. And the bands were so exciting!"

"But the proudest moment of my life was really when the queen gave me to a lady as a token of her appreciation of the lady's brave soldier daddy."

SOUP TO NUTS! EAT WITHOUT FEAR OF DYSPEPSIA—PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN

Digests Food when Stomach Can't—No Sourness, Gas, Indigestion

You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of indigestion or Dyspepsia, or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach, if you will take Pape's Diapepsin occasionally.

Anything you eat will be digested; nothing can ferment or turn into acid, poison or stomach gas, which causes Belching, Dizziness, a feeling of fullness after eating, Nausea, Indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach), Bilioussness, Heartburn,

Water brash, Pain in Stomach and Intestines. Headaches from stomach are absolutely unknown where Pape's Diapepsin is used. It really does all the work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach can't. It leaves nothing to ferment, sour and upset the stomach.

Get a large 50 cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from your druggist, then eat anything you want without the slightest discomfort or misery. Besides, every particle of impurity and Gas that is in your stomach and intestines will vanish.

Should you be suffering now from Indigestion or any stomach disorder, you can get relief in five minutes.

LESS MEAT IF KIDNEYS HURT OR YOU'RE BACKACHY AND RHEUMATIC

Meat forms uric acid which clogs Kidneys; causes Rheumatism and irritates Bladder.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. Agent, Chas. A. Beyschlag, Druglist, 609 Main street.

WHERE STANDPATTERS "RUN TAXATION WILD"

"Minneapolis taxpayers contributed more than $1,000,000 to the expenses of state government this year, as compared with $510,000 five years ago."

This statement is made in the Minneapolis Tribune by City Statistician
H. H. Stewart.

The thing has a familiar sound.
We wonder why this increase. No doubt it is because of the "mad carreer" of "progressive politicians" flooding the statutes with useless and imprudent laws. Indeed, the only obstacle to accepting this view is that Minnesota for the last five years has had a magnificent standpat government.

THE PANACEA HAS NOT PANNED OUT

The following paragraph is from the Boston Transcript:

"It is now admitted that in February the collections at the custom houses were $10,000,000 less than in February, 1912, the last complete month of the Taft administration, and the outlook is not favorable for a miraculous draught of receipts in the less than four months that remain of the current fiscal year."

Ruin of our industries by a flood of importations from foreign countries has utterly failed to develop to the confusion of the Wilson administration. On the other hand, so far as may be ascertained today,
the removal of the tariff has had little effect in reducing the cost of living. The two go together. It is logical that, in order to have reduced the cost of living, the removal of the tariff must have resulted in greatly expanding importation. It leaves the administration in this position:

that it has failed to live up to the expectation of the consumer, and has failed to bring upon itself the enmity of the manufacturers. Things seem to be about as they were before the political revolution which made Woodrow Wilson president.
However, perhaps it is too early now to judge definitely of results.

OF PRINCIPLE AND PATRONAGE

The rank and file in the democratic party had hoped to see Aylward eliminated and a new man enter the race, one who would have the support of all true democrats in the state of Wisconsin. Such a man would have a walkway for the United States senatorship. If John A.
Aylward has at heart the welfare of the democratic party in the state of Wisconsin, he will step aside and allow the democrats to select some good man who is free from entangling alliances, which instead of ce-menting the party only act as a dividing line.—Sheboygan Press, Tory Dem.

Does freedom from "entangling alliances" mean freedom from principles?—Milwaukee Journal.

No doubt by "entangling alliances"
the Sheboygan Press meant confessing "principle," but a less biased critic might have used the same term with reference to the appointment of Paul Hemmy, income tax foe, to the office that requires the administration of that law. It is retribution that the Hemmy appointment and similar affairs failed to buy the stalwart democratic vote, for despite his tendency to compromise, Aylward is still regarded by the standpatters as an arch progressive. However, the stalwart democratic opposition to Mr.
Aylward is hardly more bitter than that of progressive democrats with an eye to the plum tree who are tired of seeing "Joe and me" do all the shaking. There is not fruit enough to go around. Thus, in all parties, do principle and patronage stir the souls of men—principle before election, patronage afterward.

"EXAGGERATION" AND "VILLA-FICATION"

On the eve of attacking Torreón General Villa, the outlaw insurgent leader, advised the newspaper men that "they would have as important a part to play in the war game as the soldiers." He cautioned them to be "truthful as well as diligent, and above all, to refrain from EXAG-GERATION."

Barring the murders committed by such men as Villa, the latter's conception of war as a newspaper game is not inconsistent with the general character of war in Mexico. Perhaps Villa should have advised the reporters to exaggerate the battles and put the soft pedal upon his personal atrocities. That would have given some sort of balance to the work of the correspondents.

It will not be necessary for the reporters to exaggerate the doings at Villa's staff headquarters, in order to be fittingly sensational. If they tell the plain truth, and what decent men think about it, they will have plenty of stories of villa-fication.

"THE FORDS AND THE CAN'T AFFORDS"

There is a real economic sermon in the observation of an eastern newspaper correspondent that all automobile owners are divided into two classes: "The Ford," and "the can't afford."

No doubt the can't afford, for the most part, might be identified by consulting the records of mortgages against residence property on file throughout the country. The automobile is a fine thing, in cases a necessity, where the overhead charges are not proportionately too great.
But, for the person of modest means, it is a luxury to secure which many of the more substantial things of life are sacrificed. There is no economic principle to justify the purchase of a car with a mortgage on your home.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Fate
The sky is clouded, the rocks are bare.
The spray of the tempest is white in air.
The winds are out with the wave at
play,
And I shall not tempt the sea today.

The trail is narrow, the wood is dim.
The panther clings to the arching limb,
The lion's whelps are abroad at
play,
And I shall not join in the chase today.

But the ship sailed safely over the sea,
And the hunters came from the chase
in glee,
And the town that was builded upon
a rock,
Was swallowed up in an earthquake shock.

—Brete Harte.

Thinking Seriously
Father—Jane, are that young man's intentions serious?
Daughter—I think so, pa; he says
our carriage shed could be easily transformed into a garage, and the attic would make a dandy billiard room and bowling alley.

Not Previously Touched
Borrowy—Let's see, do I owe you anything?
Bangs—Not a cent, my boy. Are you going around paying your little debts?
Borrowy—No; going around seeing if I'd overlooked anybody. Lend me five till Saturday, will you?

A Busy Center
He had lived in the city only a short time, and was having a talk with a young woman one evening.
"Was there much life in the country town from which you came?" he asked.
"Well, I guess," he exclaimed, promptly. "You ought to have seen the gatherings in our cemetery on a Sunday."—Harper's Magazine.

The Place
"What did the detectives do with you?"
"They acted like a hospitable club friend."
"How was that?"
"They took me to the grillroom."
—Baltimore American.

Wants Information
"May I ask you a question, dad?"
asked little Pat.
"Well, what is it?"
"Well, if the end of the world was to come and be destroyed when a man was up in an aeroplane, where would he land when he came down?"
"Go to bed at once, sir!" roared his dad.

"Bum" Way, All Right
Jean longed for a kitten with all her heart, but her mother was not fond of cats, so she was not allowed to have one in spite of her eager pleadings. At length it became necessary for Jean to go to the hospital for an operation. "I will make a bargain with you, Jean," said her mother. "If you will be a brave little girl about having your operation, you shall have the very nicest kitten I can find."

Jean climbed upon the operating table and took the ether without a struggle. As she came out from un-

Recipe To Darken Gray Hair

By a Specialist

A very satisfactory preparation which darkens gray hair and acts as a corrective agent for dandruff and other diseases of the scalp can be made at small expense and in your own home by dissolving a small box of Barbo Compound in 7 ounces of water and then adding an ounce of bay rum and a quarter ounce of glycerine. Any drug store can furnish these ingredients. This is to be applied once a week until the hair is sufficiently darkened, then every two weeks to keep the hair soft and glossy and the scalp in a healthy condition. It may be used with equal success in darkening the beard. This is a preparation that gives splendid results, both as a hair darkener and a remedy for all scalp disorders, and is well worthy of a trial. You will find it far superior to the ordinary store preparations and much less expensive.

Followed Tabby Home

Smith and Jones met in the smoke den of a Pullman car one afternoon, and during the gabfest that ensued Smith referred to the town into which he had just moved.
"The streets of the blooming burg," he eloquently described, "are the crookedest of anything in that line on the face of the earth. You may not believe it, but a couple of days after we got there my wife had a cat that she wanted to lose and told me to take it over and leave it along the river about a mile distant. Well, sir—"
"I see, old pal," smilingly interjected the other. "That's where you lost the cat all right."
"You've got another guess," returned Smith. "If I hadn't followed the cat I would never have found my way back home."

Never Can Tell

"When you poke a toad," said old Farmer Hornbeck, philosophically,
"you can't tell which way he will jump, nor how far; an' it is just about the same way with the average jury."
"That so?" returned young Jay Green, in a non-committal way.
"Yep. For instance, in the case of Plunk Jarvis, who has just been tried over at Kickyassett court house for pullin' out his brother-in-law's whiskers in the roots in a fight, the jury discharged Plunk an' fined his brother-in-law 10 cents, the regular price of a shave."—Puck.

HAROLD MACGRATH

He stepped into the gutter, biting his lips and straining his uninjured hand over the hurting throb in his wrist. The hat-pin as a weapon of defense he had hitherto accepted as reporters' yarns. He was now thoroughly convinced of the truth. He had had wide experience with women. His advantage had always been in the fact that the general run of them will submit to insult rather than create a scene. This dark-eyed Judith was distinctly an exception to the rule. Gad! She might have missed his wrist and jabbed him in the throat. He swore, and walked off down the street.

Elsa set a pace which Martha,
with her wabbling knees, found difficult to maintain.

"You might have killed him!"
she cried breathlessly.

"You can't kill that kind of a snake with a hat-pin; you have to stamp on its head. But I rather believe it will be some time before Mr.
Craig will again make the mistake of insulting a woman because she appears to be defenseless."

Elsa's chin was in the air. The choking sensation in her throat began to subside. "The deadly hat-pin; can't you see the story in the newspapers?"
Well, I for one am not afraid to use it. You know and the paper knows what happened on the boat to Mandahay. He was plausible and affable and good-looking, and the mistake was mine. I seldom make them. I keep quiet because the boat was full-up, and as a rule I hate scenes. Men like that know it. If I had complained, he would have denied his actions, inferred that I was evil-minded. He would have been shocked at my misinterpreting them.
Heavens, I know the breed! Now, not a single word of this to any one.
Mr. Craig, I fancy, will be the last person to speak of it."

"You had better put the pin back into your hat," suggested Martha.

"Pah! I had forgotten it." Elsa flung the weapon far into the street.

Once they turned into Merchant
Street, both felt the tension relax.
Martha would have liked to sit down, even on the curb.

"I despise men," she volunteered.
"I am beginning to believe that few of them are worth a thought.
Those who aren't fools are knaves."

"Are you sure of your judgment in regard to this man Warrington?"
How can you tell that he is any different from that man Craig?"

"He is different, that is all. This afternoon he will come to tea. I shall want you to be with us. Remember, not a word of this disgraceful affair."

"Ah, Elsa, I am afraid: I am more afraid of Warrington than of a man of Craig's type."

"And why?"

"It sounds foolish, but I can't ex-

Wonderful Treatment For Corns Callouses and All Sore Feet

Millions of people who endure daily torment from sore feet will welcome the information that there is now a simple treatment that positively and quickly cures foot ailments of all kinds. You can say goodbye to corns and callouses; bunions; aching, bad smelling and sweaty feet. This treatment works right through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Use it once and your feet feel delightful; use it for a week and your foot troubles will be a thing of the past. "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for fifteen minutes, gentle rubbing the sore parts." Amazing results follow. Calocide was formerly confined to doctors' use but now any druggist will supply it. If he does not have it in stock he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. A twenty-five cent package is said to be enough to put the worst feet in fine condition.

"No, thanks. I was never fond of whisky. Sometimes, when I am
dead tired, and have to go on working,
I take a little."
So that wasn't it. Elsa's curiosity
today was keenly alive. She wanted to ask a thousand questions; but
the ease with which the man wore
his new clothes, used his voice and
eyes and hands, convinced her more than ever that the subtlest questions
she might devise would not stir him

plain. I am just afraid of him."

"Bother! You talk like an old maid."

"And I am one, by preference."
"We are always quarreling, Martha; and it doesn't do either of us any good. When you oppose me, I find that that is the very thing I want to do. You haven't any diplomacy."

"I would gladly cultivate it if I thought it would prove effectual,"
was the retort.

"Try it," advised Elsa dryly.
Warrington's appearance that afternoon astonished Elsa. She had naturally expected some change, but scarcely such elegance. He was, without question, one of the handsomest men she had ever met. He was handsomer than Arthur because he was more manly in type.
Arthur himself, an exquisite in the matter of clothes, could not have improved upon this man's taste of selection. What a mystery he was!

She greeted him cordially, without restraint; but for all that, a little shiver stirred the tendrils of hair
at the nape of her neck.

"The most famous man in Rangoon today," she said, smiling.
"So you have read that tommy-rot in the newspaper?"

They sat on her private balcony, under an awning. Rain was threatening. Martha laid aside her knitting and did her utmost to give her smile of welcome an air of graciousness.

"I shouldn't call it tommy-rot," Elsa declared. "It was not chance.
It was luck and foresight. Men who possess those two attributes get about everything worth having."

"There are exceptions," studying the furrle of his cane.
"Is there really anything you want now and can't have?"

Martha looked at her charge in dread and wonder.
"There is the moon," he answered. "I have always wanted that. But there it hangs, just as far out of reach as ever."

"Two lumps?"
"None. My sugar-tooth is gone."
Elsa had heard that hard drinkers disliked sweets. Had this been the Gordian knot he had cut?

"Perhaps, after all," she said,
"you would prefer a peg, as you call it over here."

"No, thanks. I was never fond of whisky. Sometimes, when I am
dead tired, and have to go on working,
I take a little."

So that wasn't it. Elsa's curiosity
today was keenly alive. She wanted
to ask a thousand questions; but
the ease with which the man wore
his new clothes, used his voice and
eyes and hands, convinced her more
than ever that the subtlest questions
she might devise would not stir him

into any confession. That he had once been a gentleman of her own class, and more, something of an exquisite, there remained no doubt in her mind. What had he done?
What in the world had he done?

TESTIMONY THAT CANNOT BE DOUBTED

I wish to testify to the good that your Swamp-Root did me. I was borered with Kidney trouble and lame back for some three years; had taken medicine from several doctors but without effect. I finally tried Dr.
Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and after taking three bottles was completely cured. I have also recommended it to several friends who have been completely cured of kidney and bladder trouble. In one case a friend of mine in Toledo took two bottles of Swamp-Root, which dissolved a stone in his bladder. He has not been troubled since. Also a friend in Springfield, Ohio, who was employed at the Springfield Metallic Casket company was completely cured of kidney trouble after taking Swamp-Root. I give this testimonial unsolicited, for it may be the means of helping some one else.

Yours gratefully,
C. M. SPENCER,
Manager Western Union Tel. Co.

Before me the undersigned, a Notary Public in and for the County

timonial are true to the best of his knowledge and belief.

SAGE TEA DANDY
TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

SAYS AMERICA IS
"OVER-CHURCHED"

DENVER, Col., March 18.—"America is over-churched. If some providential hand could sweep over the country and carry off about one-tenth of the churches that exist, it would be a merciful dispensation. The number of churches is too far in excess of the number of men who are willing to go into the ministry."

Dr. Robert F. Coyle, who, on June 1, resigns his pastorate of the Central Presbyterian church here to go to the Pacific coast, thus spoke today summing up his impressions of his fourteen years ministry here.

"The day is coming when the Protestant churches will be one," he added. "The movement is slow, but sure. Sectarian prejudices no longer hold ground with the educated and creeds are slowly dying."

PAVLOWA HURTS
FOOT IN DANCE

ST. LOUIS, March 18.—An X-ray examination of Anna Pavlova's foot will be necessary today before her manager will know whether to cancel further engagements of the beautiful Russian dancer. As she and her partner, M. Hovikoff, entered for the last dance at the Odeon last night, they took a few steps and suddenly those near the stage heard a snap, like the breaking of a tendon, a look of agony spread over the face of the dancer. Hovikoff bore her from the stage to her dressing room, where she fainted.

Four Bodies Are Recovered and Ruins Are Searched Today for Six Still Missing

PLACE BUSINESS BEFORE LIFE

Busy Season in Seed Business Makes Owners Ignore Warning that Club Ruins Are Dangerous

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 18.—Search for the six persons missing and supposed to be under the wreckage of the St. Louis Seed company building was resumed early today. Three men and one woman are known to have lost their lives when the west wall of the Missouri Athletic club crashed down upon the seed shop, burying a score or more persons beneath the ruins. Twelve persons are known to have been injured. Three bodies have been recovered and the fourth definitely located.

Although other sections of the Missouri Athletic club walls threatened at any time to collapse, the police had to fight back the crowd of curious this morning, who threatened to invade the ruins of the seed store to better view the rescue.

The dead: William Davidson, a laborer for the Wiemer Construction company; C. L. Grider, a carpenter; an unidentified woman; an unidentified man.

The missing: Ball, C.; Burke, G.; Mack, J.; Nick, G.; Spaulding, W.; Weber, F.

Although city heads had recognized the club house shell was a menace to life, the seed company had opened for business after insurance men had assured them that the walls were not dangerous. The firm was particularly anxious to resume operations, as March is their busy month. The sign "Open for Business" today still hung over the entrance, a silent reminder of the placing of business before life.

DARKNESS EMBOLDENS

CHICAGO STREET LIGHTS GO OUT AND HIGHWAYMEN AND AUTO BANDITS HOLD CARNIVAL

CHICAGO, March 18.—Suddenly plunged into gloom early today when rows of street lights blinked out for some unaccountable reason, downtown Chicago found itself at the mercy of highwaymen and auto bandits until daylight.

A lone bandit, leaping from a limousine, held up the clerk of the Briggs hotel, one block from the city hall and got $150 from the cash box. William Sturmer, assistant manager, was shot in the leg when he pursued the robber.

At Thompson's restaurant in the heart of theatrical section, the cashier was forced to turn over $35 to two men with revolvers. A dozen petty hold ups were reported to the police.

DAWES HOTEL SUCCESS

CHICAGO, March 18.—Charles G. Dawes, millionaire banker, who erected a hotel for "Down and Outs" as a memorial to his son who was drowned in Lake Geneva, today pronounced the experiment a decided success.

"During the first two months of its operation," said Dawes, "the hotel furnished 27,651 baths and lodgings. The total deficit was only $583.04. I guess I can stand that."

NOTED GUNMAN ESCAPES

JOLIET, Ill., March 18.—Matt Searlak, notorious gunman who created a reign of terror in Joliet seven years ago, escaped from the Illinois state prison here today and is being hunted by a posse of guards. Searlak was sentenced to serve a life term in 1908 after he had killed August Beltzner, wealthy merchant, and Arthur Jack, a saloonkeeper, and had committed a score of robberies.

KAISER AGAIN GRANDDAD

BERLIN, March 18.—Kaiser Wilhelm was presented with a sixth grandson today when a son was born to the Duchess of Brunswick, who was Victoria Louise of Hohenzollern, only daughter of the Kaiser. The emperor was with her daughter and the emperor was thoroughly delighted on receiving the news.

W. E. Barber to Face Jury of His Peers for Conspiracy to Monopolize the Laundry Business

WARRANT IS OUT FOR HIS ARREST

Sheriff Saltz Has "Papals" and Hot Clash of Attorneys Is Expected in Court

On the charge of conspiracy to monopolize the laundry business of La Crosse, W. E. Barber will be tried tomorrow night before the Franklin club in the court room in Fjeldstad's hall. The warrant for the arrest of Mr. Barber has already been sworn out by Sheriff J. F. Saltz, and it is expected that the defendant will be taken into custody sometime tomorrow. Attorney Otto Bosshard will defend Mr. Barber before Judge P. W. Mahoney, while the prosecution will be in the hands of Attorney Otto Schlabach.

Witnesses for both the defense and the prosecution are being duly sworn, and as for the jury, members of the club will be impeached tomorrow night.

STATE MAY LOSE
ELK HERD GIFT

MADISON, Wis., March 18.—(Special.)—Because of the lateness of the season and lack of snow and consequent difficulty in capturing the animals in their native haunts, it is doubtful whether the state of Wisconsin will get its expected gift of twenty-five elk from Yellowstone park, as promised by the government. Word from Washington to this effect has come to State Game Warden John A. Sholtz. Officials of the Milwaukee zoo have guaranteed $500 to pay for their transportation.

WOMEN TO SWING
CHICAGO ELECTION

CHICAGO, March 18.—Women voters will hold the balance of power in every ward in the aldermanic elections April 7, politicians noted today after a careful scanning of the registration books closed last night. Women to the number of 218,643 have registered as qualified voters in Chicago. The male registration is 474,981, giving the Windy City a grand total of 693,624, more registered voters than any city of the United States.

SCHMIDT GETS RESPITE

NEW YORK, March 18.—Death in the electric chair, to which "Father" Hans Schmidt was sentenced "during the week of March 23," for the murder of Anna Aumuller today was postponed for probably a year. Schmidt's respite came automatically with the filing by his counsel, C. J. McManus of a notice of appeal. It is not believed that the court of appeals will reach Schmidt's case for many months.

TRUST BILLS IN APRIL

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Actual consideration in the house of the administration anti-trust bills will not begin before the middle or latter part of April and will be held up until the big appropriation bills are passed, according to predictions of democratic leaders today.

Here's a Cure
For Sciatica

Painful Form of Rheumatism Quickly Overcome.

These sharp darting pains that characterize sciatic rheumatism should be treated in the blood. And by using S. S. S. you not only get relief but a cure.

S. S. S. has the peculiar action of sealing through the intestines directly into the blood. In five minutes its influence is at work in every artery, vein, and tiny capillary. Every membrane, every organ of the body, every emunctory becomes in effect a filter to strain the blood of impurities. The stimulating properties of S. S. S. compel the skin, liver, bowels, kidneys and bladder to all work to the one end of casting out every irritating, every pain-inflaming atom of poison; it dislodges and irrigation all accumulations in the joints, renders them neutral and scatters those peculiar formations in the nerve centers that cause such mystifying and often baffling rheumatic pains.

And, best of all, this remarkable remedy is welcome to the weakest stomach. If you have dragged yourself until your stomach is nearly paralyzed, you will be astonished to find that S. S. S. gives no sensation but goes right to work. This is because it is a pure vegetable infusion. It takes naturally into your blood just as pure air is inhaled naturally into your lungs.

You can get S. S. S. at any drug store. S. S. S. is a standard remedy, recognized everywhere as the greatest blood antiseptic ever discovered. If yours is a peculiar case and you desire special information, write to The W. F. Specific Co., 221 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

AVERTS WRECK

Fourteen Year Old Maiden Rock Lad Saves the Burlington Limited

What might have been a disastrous wreck costing the lives of many passengers, on train 48, the Chicago and Minnesota limited on the Burlington, due here at 11:52 p. m., was narrowly averted Saturday night by the presence of mind and the quick action of Lester Roschi, a fourteen year old boy of Maiden Rock, Wis.

While returning home along the tracks late in the evening, the boy heard crashes behind him, and hastening back he found that a number of huge boulders had lodged in the middle of the track. With but a few minutes before the train was due, he rushed to the station, reporting to the station agent, who rushed a crew of men to the scene to clear away the debris, barely in time to let the train pass in safety.

Talk in Tongue of the Fatherland Will Be Feature of the Community Banquet

There will be no lack of speakers at the community banquet to be given March 24 at Germania hall, for thirty business men of this city and 300 farmers of the surrounding territory according to announcement by Dr. H. Clay Evenson today. One address will be given in German. John Vanderpflug, a farmer of La Crosse county, has sent in word that he will be present and has something to say. He added, however, that he lacked fluency in English and would accordingly speak his mind in his native tongue, if agreeable to the promoters.

Acceptance cards of those invited have been coming in rapidly, and Dr. Evenson said today that the lists would be closed within a few days. He asked that the invited guests be urged to sign their acceptance at once, in order to "get in" on the banquet.

ICE GORGE AT KEOUK

MAY BE FORCED TO USE OF DYNAMITE TO LIGHTEN THE STRAIN ON THE BIG DAM

With the Mississippi river free of ice from the foot of Lake Pepin to La Crosse, the earliest opening in history, rivermen in La Crosse and all along the stream are watching with eager interest the disposal of a great ice gorge at Keokuk dam.

The dam spans the river where it is of great width at the lower end of a lake that is still frozen over solidly. It is believed that it will be necessary to dynamite the gorge in order to relieve the pressure against the dam.

HUNT SLAYER OF
ARMENIAN DOCTOR

MILWAUKEE, March 18.—One arrest had been made early today, but police were withholding their plans regarding their search for the murderer of Dr. Horan Jerahagian, an Armenian physician whose body was found late Tuesday near Cudahy. Robbery was evidently the motive, the Armenian's money belt and pocketbook being emptied. His landlady today identified one suspect, a Turk, as the man who visited Jerahagian Monday and urged him to go to Cudahy.

THE OLD OAKEN BUCKET.
A FAMOUS SONG AND ITS COMPOSER

Samuel Woodworth, the son of a modest Massachusetts farmer, was born in Scituate, that state, January 19, 1785. While the family were poor and had no luxuries, their lot was no worse than that of the ordinary New England family, and they lived in comparative comfort.

Young Samuel received the usual education of the country boy of his time, began writing verse at an early age—and was apprenticed at the age of fifteen to the printing trade.

While his life was a succession of ambitions, attempts and failures, his fame rests secure on his faithful portrayal of the old-fashioned well and weather-beaten well-sweep, universally to be found in the farms of that day.

While living in New York City, on Duane Street, he came home one July day, nearly overcome with the heat, and with nothing to drink but the tepid water of the city—ice being unknown in those days in the summer months—he exclaimed to his wife: "What would I not give this moment for a bucket hanging in my father's well!"

"Samuel!" replied his wife, "wouldn't that be a good subject for a poem?" Forthwith he sat down—the thronging recollections of his childhood crowded thick upon him—and that charming idyl of bucolic New England sprang into deathless life and fame. The music is said to have been adapted from an ancient Scottish melody by Frederick Smith. Woodworth died in 1852.

This song, like so many of the heart lyrics of an elder day, is found in the famous song collection called "Heart Songs"—which this paper is offering nearly free of cost to its readers.

We recommend them to look at

WATROUS WRITES OF WAR DAYS OF COL. WOODWARD

and editors of the brigade in a large tent in the camp of the Second regiment. About fifty were present, including General Rufus King, many years editor of the Milwaukee Sentinel, and Captain Charles D. Robinson of the Green Bay Advocate. The celebration was planned by Sergeant Woodward, and he prepared the program, except that the "prints" insisted upon his writing and reading the poem. Both General King and Captain Robinson made addresses, and there was singing by a printer-soldier quartet. The hit of the occasion was Colonel Woodward's poem. Some years ago I found among my army papers a copy of that poem and sent it to the colonel. It was a happy event and added to the popularity of its originator. Interest in it was not lessened because of the fact that the celebration took place a short distance from the Lee mansion on Arlington Heights, in sight of Washington and on land once owned and many times traversed by General Woodward.

In one of the campaigns the summer of 1862 the soldiers had not had a chance to wash their clothes for several weeks. An army washing in those days was a novel affair. If the temporary camp was near a creek or river their banks were lined with soldiers doing their mending and washing. With many it often happened that the only clothes they had were those on their backs. Upon one such occasion Sergeant Woodward had all of his clothes in the wash, himself the washerman. Trousers, coat, shirt and drawers had just been hung upon bushes to dry when the "long roll," the most alarming of all of the army calls, was sounded. It meant "fall in" in preparation for battle or a hurried movement. It meant immediate and important work for the orderly sergeants. Woodward grabbed his wet clothes and ran like a deer to his company, gave the command "Fall in," called the roll and then donned the wet uniform.

Not long after that he took his place as a lieutenant and later as adjutant of the regiment. He was not allowed to forget that washday. As he marched on foot or rode with the colonels there always was a greater or less number of the boys in the brigades to call out "There goes Woodward. Wonder when his next washday comes," or make similar remarks.

In battle, and he missed none that his regiment participated in, he not only did bravely and splendidly his part, but he was an inspiration to all who saw or heard him.

At the battle of Gettysburg Adjutant Woodward was on the staff of General Sol Meredith of the Iron brigade. As the brigade moved into line the Sixth Wisconsin, by direction of General Wadsworth, division commander, was ordered to a position in reserve. Later, when General Cutler, commander of Wadsworth's Second brigade, was forced back, the Sixth was ordered to Cutler's assistance. Meredith had not at first noticed that the Sixth was not in his line of battle and directed Lieutenant Woodward to hunt it up and report. He found the Sixth at an important point near a railroad cut, and returned and reported that the Sixth was about to charge the enemy, under orders from the division commander.

"I don't care what they are about to do or who ordered them to do it, you go and tell Colonel Dawes to report to me with my other regiment at once."

Though he knew it was a rank military order for a brigade commander to countermand the order of a division general, Lieutenant Woodward snatched his horse in the direction of the Sixth. He reached the regiment just after it had made its charge on the railroad cut and captured the Second Mississippi, having lost heavily in killed and wounded. It was one of the many heroic things done during the three days' battle. Woodward didn't get a chance to make a second report to General Meredith, for before he returned from Colonel Dawes, Meredith's horse had been killed and in falling had seriously injured the general. He never returned to the brigade.

Colonel Woodward told me this story while we were looking over the famous battlefield during the great Gettysburg reunion last July. "General Meredith was as brave as a lion but lacked much in military tactics," it was at the battle of Gettysburg that Colonel Woodward was wounded.

The death of Colonel Woodward is a source of great sorrow to all who knew him, but no class is more deeply wounded than the surviving members of the Iron brigade, all of whom held him in high esteem as a fellow soldier, a friend and a man of great worth.

Another link in a soldier chain is broken. Woodward has followed Fairchild, Allen, Stevens, Bragg, Robinson, Meredith and hundreds of other officers and men who in the long ago wrought valiantly that the nation might not perish from the earth. Among the score of different adjutants the brigade had, only survivors, and the tracks have become fresh to the few remaining members of a war command that served the country long and well and honored the states from which it went to the front.

Long Search for Andrew Oren on Charge of Wife-Abandonment Ends in Reconciliation

Happiness reigns supreme once more in the household of Andrew Oren, who was apprehended at Tomah Monday after a two months' vacation from the duties of domestic life.

For two months Oren has been the object of search of probably twenty or thirty constables and sheriffs, who at the behest of Mrs. Oren bent every effort to locate her husband. Mrs. Oren declared that he had heartlessly deserted her and that all she wanted was to locate him so that notice of divorce proceedings might be served upon him.

Today while Oren was awaiting hearing on a charge of wife desertion, his better half escorted him into the private chambers of Sheriff Webber. When they emerged Judge Brindley was notified that a reconciliation had taken place and the charge was withdrawn.

That famous farce comedy, "Hello Bill," will be presented at the Majestic theater by the Van Dyke & Eaton company for three days starting Thursday matinee. This comedy adds another to the already long list of high class plays that have been presented to La Crosse theatergoers by this clever company. Among those familiar with the recent theatrical successes the name "Hello Bill" stands for one of the greatest American comedies of recent years. Abounding with funny situations, bright lines and genuine humor of a high grade—it amuses and interests old and young. The story of the play is an interesting one and makes you think at the same time it makes you laugh.

Thursday night will be Elks' night and the antlered tribe will turn out in large numbers with their wives, sisters, daughters and friends. While it is called Elks night it doesn't mean that others are not welcome—for they are. An especial invitation is extended to everyone who likes a good, clean, wholesome comedy to witness this clever comedy—no only on Thursday night, but any night or afternoon for the remainder of the week.

The last performance of "The Embezzler" will be given tonight.

SEEK REGULARITY OF EMPLOYMENT

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Irregularity of employment is one of the evils that the federal industrial commission will seek to remedy and to aid in this branch of its work. W. M. Leiserson, state superintendent of employment agencies in Wisconsin, was today appointed by the commission to investigate employment agencies throughout the United States. Leiserson, who has studied the labor problem abroad, has been consulted by Mayor Mitchell and Gov. Glynn of New York. One of his ideas, enforced in Wisconsin, is to have organized labor represented in all employment offices.

LOVED LA CROSSE TOO WELL—JAILED

Love for La Crosse today brought James Mulvey and Mike Mitchell to cells in the county jail. Both men pleaded guilty to charges of vagrancy and took thirty day sentences. Mulvey and Mitchell, economic tourists by occupation, have been living in La Crosse for the last few weeks, subsisting on the generosity of others. Both men have been warned by the police and repeatedly given an opportunity to leave the city, but failed to avail themselves of the opportunity.

SUICIDES IN HOTEL

ABERDEEN, S. D., March 18.—Charles Anderson, 55, formerly of Clear Lake, Iowa, was found dead in his room at the Keystone hotel here early today, with a gas jet turned on.

A Sharp Thrust

"You're trying very hard to be a man, it seems," said the disgusted husband the other day to his wife.

"Well," she replied coldly, "don't you think we need one in the family?"—New York Tribune.

SMILES AND KIND WORDS.

A smile can do wonders, and a kind word can do wonders. Two smiles can do more than one, and two kind words can do more than one kind word. It comes down to a simple problem of arithmetic. If one smile and one kind word may serve to make one tired heart happy, how many tired hearts can a dozen smiles and a dozen kind words make happy? The problem is simple. Don't be stingy with your smiles and your kind words.

BUILDER ADMITS HIRING LOBBYIST

Former Rear Admiral Bowles Says He Engaged Man to Fight Toll Bill Clause

HE USES REPRESENTATIVE'S NAME

Alleged Lobbyist Says He Persuaded Knowland of California to Lead the Fight

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Admission that he had paid Clarence W. DeKnight, alleged lobbyist, a retainer of $1,000 and promised him a contingent fee if he succeeded in having the provision forbidding use of the Panama canal to railroad owned ships stricken from the Panama canal bill, was made to the senate lobby committee today by former Rear Admiral F. T. Bowles, president of the Fore River Ship Building company.

"If you are interested," DeKnight wrote Bowles on March 18, 1912, "I shall be glad to assist in attempting to have this provision kept out of the bill. Of course, I would want a retainer fee of say $1,000 and a contingent fee of $4,000 in the event that the provision is not enacted into law."

Bowles said he accepted this proposition and filed with the committee his letter so advising DeKnight. The latter then wrote Bowles that he had gotten in touch with Representative Knowland of California of whom he said he "knew quite well," and who would lead the fight against the provision. Later DeKnight advised Bowles that he would probably be unable to prevent passage of the clause by the house, but that he might keep the majority down to a minimum, so that if the senate took a decided stand against the house might recede in conference.

TAX CUT MEANS LOSING ADVANCE

H. E. Logan Says There Is No Way to Lower Taxes Without Abandoning Progress

Discussing recent criticism relative to the increase of state taxes, H. E. Logan, representative of the state tax commission, today declared that there is no way of lowering state taxes unless the people wish to abandon the improvements and progress the state has made during recent years. Mr. Logan arrived in the city this morning from Chasburg, where he has just installed the tax commission system of auditing.

"There is much talk of reforming and reducing the state tax, but how is it going to be done?" he asked. "Some people would say, 'abolish the commissions.' And then the question arises, what commissions could be abolished?"

"The industrial commission could not be abolished for the working man would not tolerate it. The railroad commission might be abolished but the people as a whole would not permit that. The state could reduce state taxes about $120,000 by abolishing the tax commission but $70,000 of this $120,000 would be thrown back onto the county tax roll for the salaries of county tax assessors alone."

In referring to criticism regarding constant changes of state laws, Mr. Logan declared that when changes stop progress stops, and when legislation stops changing the progress of the state will stop.

OLD LADY'S PIPE DESTROYS BUILDING

OSHKOSH, Wis., March 18.—An eighty year old inmate of the Old Ladies' home here sneaked to the attic for a quiet smoke this morning. Her pipe started a fire which practically destroyed the $8,000 structure.

TWICE RESCUED—DIES

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, March 18. D. B. Davis, 63, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed his home today, after he had been twice rescued. He dashed into the burning house to save century old heirlooms, eluding firemen's efforts.

LEAVES BULK OF ESTATE TO WIDOW

Will of Westinghouse, the Inventor, Disposes of Estate Estimated at 35 Millions

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 18.—Forty per cent of the entire estate together with two-thirds of certain stocks to his widow, and one-third of the entire estate to his son, Mr. George Westinghouse, Jr., were the principal bequests of George Westinghouse, the noted inventor, who died in New York last week. The will, a brief but complicated document of five paragraphs, was probated here today.

The instrument gave no estimate of the value of the estate which, however, is believed to be about $35,000,000.

The will directed that the stock of the Westinghouse Air Brake company held by the deceased should go to the widow and the son, two-thirds to the former, and one-third to the latter. A bequest of $50,000 to Albert Garden Uptegraft, bequests equal to one year's salary to W. D. Uptegraft, H. C. Tener, M. K. Garrett and other men prominently identified with the Westinghouse enterprises and bequests equal to one year's wages for each servant in the family service for five years or more completed the will.

OBJECTS TO JUDGE CALVERT'S STAND

"With all the respect for H. M. Calvert's opinions on extradition procedure we must still remember that we are not in Russia and that Wisconsin statutes have some slight bearing on the matter." This is the statement made by Attorney A. C. Wolfe today in referring to Judge Calvert's declaration that the extradition procedure in the Louis Mintz case was not regular and that the authorities had no right to give him his freedom on bail.

"There is a statute in the Wisconsin laws expressly providing for bail in a case of this kind. In Russia a law like this might be ignored but it cannot be done here," he declared.

Judge Calvert who issued the warrant at Cleveland, Ohio, said that the action of the authorities in freeing Mintz was unusual.

"Well, Mintz is on his way to Siberia now, just the same," was Judge Calvert's comment upon being shown Mr. Wolfe's interview.

PETERSON TO PLAY AT NORDEN CONCERT

Music by Professor Peter Peterson, noted local violinist, will feature a concert to be given by the Norden band in the parlors of the Norwegian Lutheran church, Sixth and Division streets, this evening. The entertainment is for the benefit of the band, which has a deficit in its treasury. An elaborate program has been prepared. The entertainment will begin at 8 o'clock.

TRY NOTED ROBBER

MORDEN, Manitoba, March 18.—John Krafchenko, noted bank robber, was placed on trial here today for the murder of H. M. Arnold, former manager of the branch of the Bank of Montreal at Plum Coulee, after the bank had been robbed. Krafchenko's escape in an automobile from the scene of the robbery and his later arrest was sensational. On the eve of the day set for his trial, December 10, 1913, he made a sensational escape from the jail in Winnipeg and his two guards were arrested and subsequently pleaded guilty to complicity in the robber's escape. He was recaptured a week later and brought here for trial.

Club Stories.

Two stories are told of the time when the Athenaeum club, while its clubhouse was undergoing renovation, was hospitably taken in by the United Service club.

One was of a distinguished officer who, after a vain hunt for his umbrella, was heard to mutter, "That comes of letting those — bishops into the club!"

The counterblast is to the effect that when an Athenaeum man, while his club was still the guest of the other, asked for the librarian, the answer was, "Please, sir, he is in the dining room carving the roast beef!"—London Standard.

BISHOP TO FIGHT
THURSDAY NIGHT

LEVINSKY CLOSES
OPPONENT'S EYES

The last word from the training camp of Joe Bishop, according to the La Crosse promoters, is that the Indiana lad will be on hand to meet Posy Williams here Thursday night. Joe has either postponed his prospective operation or experienced an exceptionally speedy recovery, which is left to the speculation of the fight fans.

Yesterday Promoter Rooney received a telegram from Levine, Bishop's manager, saying that he was submitting to an operation for throat trouble and another man would have to take his place in the ring. Late yesterday afternoon another telegram came saying that Bishop would be ready for the bout Thursday night. If Joe was a baseball player fans might jump to the conclusion that he had signed a federal contract.

NEW YORK, March 18.—"Sailor" Fred Fritts' face showed the marks of a terrific storm today, following his ten round bout with Battling Levinsky at the Broadway sporting club last night. The heavyweight champion of the navy made an auspicious start, but after the fifth round was at Levinsky's mercy and quit with both eyes closed. Levinsky again showed that he lacks a knockout punch.

IRON JAW SCRAPPER
NEW YORK, March 18.—"Special Delivery" Hirsch of Chicago today was given credit for having a jaw of iron, following his ten round mill with Johnny Dundee at the Atlantic club last night. Dundee walked Hirsch at will throughout the bout and his opponent hanging on at the close.

LA CROSSE NORMAL
DEFEATS SUPERIOR

ENGLISH CHAMPION
LICKS JOE RIVERS

Local Aggregation Eliminates Northerners as Contenders for the State Title

La Crosse normal is in line for the state normal school basketball championship as the result of an 18 to 17 victory over Superior at Menomonie last night. The La Crosse aggregation will meet the Oshkosh Normal at Milwaukee Friday night in the final struggle of the season and upon the outcome of this game depends the state title.

The La Crosse and Superior quints were tied for the championship of the western district each having won four games and lost two. This made a post-season game necessary and the two schools selected Menomonie as the battlefield. According to word received from Menomonie today last night's game with Superior was one of the fastest and hardest fought games in the western section this season.

By winning the western championship the La Crosse team is entitled to a game with Oshkosh, eastern champions, to decide the state title and it has been arranged to play this at the Milwaukee normal gym Friday night.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 18.—The lightweight championships of England, Australia and South Africa still remain in Wales—with heavy anchor attachment.

Joe Rivers' efforts to outbox Freddie Welsh reminded one of a child trying to open a Yale lock with a soup ladle.

Welsh, still the peerless and pleasing performer of old, gave the Californian a scientific beating of twenty rounds. Rivers saw more boxing gloves in one afternoon than ever before in his career, and the smell of leather should sicken him during the remainder of his natural life.

Without a single knockdown, staggering punch or exciting incident, Welsh pranced around the twenty rounds, keeping his rival dangling on the end of a left jab and playing a hard right on the kidneys. On the defensive, Frederick was all of a wizard, blocking Joe's punches in a way that left nothing but elbows, forearms and gloves for Rivers to hit.

Rivers made a rattling good up-bill fight. His mistake was in trying to outbox Welsh. This plan was exactly to Freddie's liking, and his showing amounted to a boxing lesson for Joe.

When Rivers did start to cut and slash in the thirteenth he had the best of luck, reaching the champion's anatomy in a way that brought a look of concern to Welsh's face. He crimsoned the royal boxer in this round which was Joe's best session.

Again in the fifteenth Rivers stopped boxing to Welsh's orders and made the slugging more than interesting for the Briton. Joe shaded Fred in the sixteenth also.

Aside from these three rounds, Welsh handled the situation just as he pleased.

TAFT STILL TRYING TO SELL THE CUBS

CHICAGO, March 18.—"Negotiations for the purchase of the Chicago Cubs are off so far as John T. Connelly and his associates are concerned," declared Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, Cub owner, who is here today to reorganize the club.

"The Connelly syndicate knew my price and I know theirs. The difference is too great to permit any transfer.

Piloted by Charles W. Murphy, late Cub boss, Taft paid a visit to the Cub park today and then conferred with Secretary Charles H. Thomas in the Cub office. Though it was persistently reported that Thomas will be named president by Taft to succeed Murphy, the possibility that Connelly and Taft may yet get together is not being overlooked.

BRANNIGAN LICKED

PUEBLO, Col., March 18.—Benny Chavez's victory over Patsy Brannigan of Pittsburgh by decision at the end of the fifteen rounds of boxing here last night, generally met approval today. Chavez outclassed the Pittsburgher in nearly every round. The snappy, stinging punches to the face by the Mexican bothered Brannigan and kept his mouth and nose streaming blood almost from the start. Brannigan's favorite blow was a left to the body, but it lacked steam.

FRED FULTON SAVES
TWO MEN'S LIVES

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 18.—That R. H. Wilson and Charles Anderson are alive today is due to the wonderful control Fred Fulton, the Minneapolis white hope pugilist, has over his temper. Fulton said so himself while testifying in municipal court against two reckless young men.

Fulton, a bouncer at a dance hall in between fights, incurred the displeasure of the pair and they attacked him on his way home. Wilson drew a knife, and Fred testified he became so angry he nearly hit him with his famous right. He remembered just in time that he might kill Wilson if he landed, so he ran two blocks for a policeman.

Wilson drew $10 fine and Anderson $5.

RITCHIE WILLING TO FIGHT WELSH

CHICAGO, March 18.—Willie Ritchie expressed himself as considerably peeved at Freddie Welsh's remarks after beating Joe Rivers last night that he "had no hopes of getting Ritchie into the ring."

"I'm ready to meet Welsh any time a promoter makes a decent offer and satisfactory arrangements can be made," said the champion. "I'm willing to fight him any place they put up the funds."

There may be such a thing as honesty in politics; many important discoveries are still to be made.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Pipe Tobacco

Tuxedo grew rapidly in public favor without advertising; its natural growth reached the stupendous total of fifty or sixty million packages a year. Not until the past few months has it been possible to keep up with the demand for Tuxedo. Now increased facilities make it possible for every man to smoke this best of tobaccos.

Tuxedo is fine, ripened Burley tobacco of the highest grade—aged until thoroughly mild and mellow. Then treated by the famous "Tuxedo Process," that removes the last trace of "bite" and develops all the delicious Burley fragrance and flavor. Pure, mild, delightful Tuxedo is absolutely non-biting—try it.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Manager McGraw and Harry Hempstead, president of the Giants, refuse to share Ban Johnson's view that the Federal league is a joke. Just to prove it, the news filtered in from Marlin today, that McGraw has signed Artie Fletcher, his star shortstop, on a three year contract. Fletcher had already signed for this season, and to better protect the interests of the club other athletes who are working under short term contracts also have been invited to sign new ones for three years. Evidently McGraw is a firm believer that forewarned is forearmed, and is trimming sails against future raids by the Federals.

Welsh After Ritchie

Defeat of Joe Rivers puts Freddie Welsh, the British lightweight champion, strictly in the running for the world's title. Welsh had a lead on points nearly all the way, according to the press dispatches from Vernon, but lacked the punch to score a knockdown. Outfought at the start, Rivers evidently did not regain heart until the close and led his English opponent a merry chase in the closing minutes of the twenty round mill.

Welsh today is clamoring for a bout with Willie Ritchie for the world's lightweight title and it is possible the two may be brought together July 4. Welsh probably is as fast a boxer as Ritchie but he lacks a wallop, which Ritchie has already demonstrated he possesses.

London Picks Gould

London is sure Jay Gould will take the world's court tennis championship from George Covey. Speaking of the four straight sets Gould took from his opponent the Westminster Gazette says, "It's Lombard street to a China orange Gould will win the match."

Place Age Limit

To prevent men like Bob Fitzsimmons and Peter Maher from re-entering the ring and to protect aspiring youngsters from commercialized managers, the New York state boxing commission today laid down a rule barring anyone over forty years of age or under eighteen from boxing in any of the licensed clubs in New York state. The rule undoubtedly is aimed primarily at the "has beens" and met with favorable comment from ring fans here.

SPARTA, WIS.

The home talent play, "The Sacrifice," which is to take place tomorrow night in the Armory, has been well mastered by the actors, and the play bids fair to be a great success. R. B. Hutchinson and T. C. Lewis have been secured by the order of the Eastern Star, which is putting on the play, to stage it. It is reported that these gentlemen have been very successful in putting on the play lately in Tomah and Mauston. The scene of the play is laid in Deadwood, and the time is about 1875. The story centers about "Chip," the girl of the Golden West.

A meeting of the board of directors of the Sparta Driving and Agricultural association was held in the court house last Saturday, at which the dates September 8, 9, 10 and 11 were set as the dates for the 1914 fair. This period seemed especially suitable, coming one week before the fair at Viroqua, and preceding the Interstate fair at La Crosse by two weeks. An excellent race program is to be carried out this year. One of the resolutions passed at the annual meeting of the stockholders held in January was that the directors should be compelled to have a program of races at the 1914 fair.

The body of Mrs. Almira Ring, aged 84, was brought to Sparta last evening on No. 5, and taken to the Mount Hope cemetery, where interment was made in the family lot. Mrs. Ring is an old Spartan, being the widow of E. P. Ring, who lived here years ago. The body was brought here by a daughter, Mrs. G. L. Prescott, of Milwaukee. Mrs. Ring was an aunt of Mrs. Charles Truax of this city. She is survived also by Llewellyn B. Ring, and Merritt Ring of Neilsville.

The Third Regiment band of Viroqua will give a concert in this city at the Armory on Tuesday evening March 24th. The Third Regiment band is the best military band in the state.

Mrs. C. M. Masters, widow of the late Judge Masters, who died Friday evening, was expected to arrive in Sparta from the west today. The funeral will be held from the Congregational church tomorrow at 2:30. Mayor McMillan has issued a request to the merchants to close their places of business from two until four o'clock in respect to the memory of Judge Masters.

The funeral of Dr. Millegan was held yesterday afternoon at two o'clock. Six of his old friends, pioneer Spartans, like himself, bore the body of the old doctor to its final resting place. They were B. E. McCoy, G. A. Richardson, W. H. Elyton, M. C. Hanson, F. P. Stiles and A. E. Howard.

Sparta's "white hopes," Art and Charlie Nelson are scheduled for a four round bout at Hammond's hall in Cataract Friday evening. There will be two preliminaries to the Nelson bout, one of which is a fight between Dan Rogers and George Johnson.

A gentleman of the road who gave the name of John Murphy was fined four dollars and costs for drunkenness in the court of Justice Lamson yesterday, and being unable to pay the same, was committed to the county jail to board with Sheriff Vieth for a period of five days.

Mrs. Gertrude Dimmock, who has been spending the winter visiting in Sparta with her sisters, Mrs. George Boss and Mrs. John Davis, left on Tuesday for her home in Los Angeles, Cal.

The Lawrence College Boys' glee club is to come to Sparta on a concert-first of this month to give a concert in the Methodist church, under the auspices of the Crescent class.

Ed Jones has moved into his new home on South Water street, and his old house on South Court street, is soon to be occupied by Herman Bitt and his bride, according to reports.

Mr. N. H. Tucker has just returned from a visit of several weeks with his daughter, Mrs. Ernest Bacon, near Cataract.

Walter Card has moved his household goods from Tomah and will occupy the new house on the Bartlett lot on the corner of Benton and Main streets.

Grace Saries is home from the Comstock school of oratory in Chicago for a short visit.

C. J. Hovde of Westby was a Sparta business caller yesterday.

Lyman Howe's moving pictures showed to their usual large crowd in the Armory last evening.

Judge Richards held his regular monthly term of court in Tomah yesterday.

Mrs. J. C. Frazer entertained the Home Study club at her home last evening.

George Grossman was a Tomah caller yesterday.

John Anderson of Madison, auditor for the Brittingham & Hixon Lumber Co., was in Sparta yesterday on business connected with that firm.

A card received from Mrs. F. W. Swingle who is now in New Richmond brings the good news that she is improving in health.

ART DEPARTMENT ATTRACTS MANY

Visitors Show Interest in Work Now Under the Supervision of Miss Van de Water

IS TO FIT YOUNG CHILDREN

Encourages a Desire for That Which Is Beautiful in Life Declare Its Advocates

One of the most busy, most popular and most interesting department to visitors at the Normal is the art work carried on under the supervision of Miss Angell with the assistance of Miss Van de Water in the grades. A recent interview with Miss Angell found her capable and willing to impart some very interesting information on her work. It is commonly agreed that art is one of the most fundamental and natural means of expression in the world as universal as gesture and preceding spoken and written language. There is no doubt that the earliest form of writing was the picture language and our alphabet of the present day is but a modification of this original universal language a form of which is preserved on the Egyptian monuments. A working theory of psychology today is this, that the child in various stages of his existence lives the various ages of his race. A study of the art work of our schools would seem to give evidence of this theory. The first attempts of the child have much in common with the crude products of the savage and primitive races. There is seen the same inclination to express one's self by means of picture and illustration. One notes on the Egyptian monuments the tendency to show the object in its entirety. For instance in the representation of a human figure the side of the head and face profile are shown and at the same time the front of the body showing both arms and both legs. This is the natural first attempt of the child in the reproduction of an image. This tendency is shown also in the medium of expression. The small child just as the savage delights in the use of crude materials as paint and charcoal. His desire is to create en masse and he has little conception of outlines. If asked to draw an apple he produces the surface of the apple and not the outlines of the same. Only later does he become capable of handling the more delicate pencil. In fact but few artists can handle it well. This race expression is found also in his product. Pupils of the third and fourth grades are especially strong in the reproduction of the crude forms of pottery like those of the American Indian. The fifth grade does excellent work in Egyptian pottery more difficult than the former. The sixth grade is ready for the more complex Greek forms while the seventh and eighth are more at home in the more intricate modern styles. There is no attempt to force this analogy but the work in the grades naturally falls into such a graduation. It is a remarkable fact that often small children show a greater skill in the use of moulding clay than do the pupils of higher grades. There seems a time in the life of the child that is fitted for this rough and crude work.

The primary aim of art in the grades is to fit the child for the choice and appreciation of that which is most beautiful and best and to some extent to train him to reproduce the same. There are three general principles underlying the art which are rhythm, balance and variety. The first is the tendency to repeat the same figure and at regular intervals of space. This tendency is natural in all normal children. If called upon to reproduce an object each will do so after his own nature and each will have the tendency to repeat this same image. A second step is balance and this is less voluntary. It is the use of the sense of proportion a sense which is not strongly developed in young children and in crude people. For instance, if asked to draw a man and a house the pupil is likely to produce a great man and a small house. Just as the Egyptians were accustomed to draw a man on horseback showing the leg and foot of the man supposed to be on the other side of the horse so the child will draw a house showing men and women visible within the walls of the house. This balance is therefore a sign of development in the child and cannot be taught at first. The first lessons therefore are attempts to get the child to express himself freely in a natural way. The second is to guide these efforts. The third principle, variety, is as it suggests a wider application of these principles.

In the teaching of art, advantage is taken of all the interests of the child for this is one of his means of expression. He illustrates the stories of his readers as Jack and Jill, Mother Goose, etc. His work suggests the season in which he is living with the snow of winter and the flowers and fruits of spring and summer. He does this, applies it by means of paper cutting, rug weaving, clay modeling, card construction, basketry, bookbinding, stenciling, etc. In the higher grades these designs are applied to more difficult constructions as textiles, dress goods, costumes, etc.

A feature of modern art teaching is its touch with the industrial lines of education. The drawings made from still life, landscapes, etc., are reworked into designs and reappear in rugs, book covers, pottery, etc.

These designs in the upper grades include house architecture and interior decoration, as furniture, rugs, draperies, etc. It is interesting to note that children designed and laid out the Normal garden last summer and the beautiful combinations of color which appeared in the late summer were planned by pupils in the spring. The general scope of the course is the culture of all pupils. In some cases it goes far beyond this. Some are naturally artistic and are capable of going much farther than the ordinary pupil. In no course in school is there a greater opportunity to study the natural tendencies and powers of the pupil. The exhibitions held in the winter and in June bear testimony that among the pupils there are many of artistic temperament to whom this course is the most pleasant and perhaps the most profitable work of the school.

The general courses for Normal students have the same principles at the base but with special intent to fit the student for the teaching of art in the public schools and the awakening of interest among their pupils for those who have special aptitude along some line. It is noticed here that these inclinations tend to specialize. Some are more capable in line work, some in tone work and some in colors. Those possessed of mechanical skill are often less capable in free hand work. There are at all times present in the classes those who are possessed of no mean abilities. There are at present in attendance several good illustrators and some who do excellent work in paint. Just as in music the natural gift counts for most but it is rendered much stronger and more capable by careful training.

MR. P. NAUSCHUETZ

Peruna the Best Remedy I Ever Found for Coughs and Colds.

Mr. P. Nauschuetz, No. 221 Sharer St., San Antonio, Texas, writes: "About a year ago I was troubled with catarrh and could hardly find help until I took Peruna, which soon brought me relief."

"Peruna is the best remedy for colds I ever found. I recommend it to any one suffering with catarrh." The first thing to accomplish in the treatment of a cold is to eliminate the accumulated poisons in the system. The excretory ducts and glands should be stimulated. This laxative element of Peruna will accomplish this.

The next thing is to raise the tone of the nerve centers, and assist the powers of Nature to resist the effects of the cold. The tonic element in Peruna is intended to meet this demand. It gives the necessary temporary strength to throw off the depression that the cold brings.

A tonic laxative is a quick and efficient weapon to meet a cold at all points.

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN.

The death of Mr. C. W. Plummer, long a well known resident of this city, occurred Tuesday morning at the Prairie du Chien sanitarium, after a long period of ill health, during which the deceased submitted to a number of critical operations. C. W. Plummer was born April 27, 1849, in Lincolnshire, Eng., and came to the United States with his parents and family in 1851. The family was prominent here for many years. Philip W. Plummer, post, G. A. R., of Prairie du Chien, being named after one of the sons who was killed during the civil war. C. W. Plummer has been for the greater part of his life a valued employee of the C. M. & St. P. Railway company and was for 35 years past in charge of the Wisconsin end of the pontoon bridge across the Mississippi river at this place. His three sisters, Mrs. E. Steiger and Mrs. Ellen Rising of Prairie du Chien and Mrs. M. J. Scanlon of Minneapolis were with him the last night of his life, the end coming at 3:20 a. m. His only son, Charles Plummer, resides in Seattle, Wash. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the Masonic hall.

Felix Bohonek, a well known resident of the First ward, passed away at his home Saturday, March 14, at 1:20 p. m. While in poor health for a long time Mr. Bohonek was able to be up and about, even on the day previous to his death. He is survived by his wife and three sons. The funeral took place Monday morning at St. John's Bohemian Catholic church. He was 49 years of age.

Professor Van Krog, principal of the Elkader high school, visited the city schools Tuesday.

Van S. Brokaw arrived home Monday from western Montana, where he has been employed on the C. M. & St. P. survey work.

The Ladies' Guild of Trinity Episcopal church meets Wednesday afternoon at the guild hall, the entertainment committee being Mesdames P. L. Scanlon, J. C. Rowley and Will Schweiger.

Mr. Dockendorf of the firm of Parkinson & Dockendorf, La Crosse, was in the city Tuesday.

District Attorney M. R. Munson is receiving a visit this week from his father, who is returning to his home in the town of Utica after visiting a daughter residing in La Crosse.

Frank Briley of Embrook, Iowa, has moved his family to Prairie du Chien to reside. Mr. Briley will engage in farming.

From England come these examples of blunders in boys' school examination papers:

"The courage of the Turks is explained by the fact that a man will more than one wife is more willing to face death than if he had one."

Question—Under what conditions will a body float in water? Answer—After it has been in water three days.

Earthworms. When a dry season or winter approaches the earthworms burrow deeper into the ground. At a depth varying from six inches to two feet each worm coils up into a little ball. By aid of secreted slime it makes a case of dirt round itself and in this state it remains dormant until abundant rains or the spring thaws call it back to a more active life.

Chicago Grain Review CHICAGO, March 18.—A sudden spurt of buying in the corn pit featured trading on the Chicago board today and gave support to the other grains. Opening firm and 1-4c higher because of light offerings, excited bidding pushed options up 5-8c for May and 3-4c for July in the forenoon session.

Wheat was higher at Liverpool and receipts at the northwestern primary markets light; consequently wheat started firm and a trifle higher. There was momentary weakness early in the day but the bulge in corn firm the market.

Oats started firm and a shade higher and profited an additional fraction for each month because of strength in corn.

Prices at the stock yards for hogs were lower today but provision traders ignored the fact and with offerings light, built up prices.

Corn maintained the early advance until the close.

Wheat gained an additional fraction in the afternoon and oats moved upward a shade to 1-4c because of the strength in corn.

Provisions turned easier toward the close.

LYNCH NEGRO QUIETLY

FAYETTE, Mo., March 18.—Sight of a bulky figure swinging from a tree behind the county jail at daybreak today was the first intimation most of the citizens of Fayette had that Dallas Shields, negro barber, who shot and killed Constable Joseph Gaines last night, was quietly lynched at midnight. Gaines was one of the oldest constables in Missouri and very popular.

POWERS IN LEAD

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 18.—Practically complete returns from yesterday's primary election today placed Winn Powers, candidate for the mayoralty nomination, in the lead by 1,000 votes with Louis Nash second. The heat of the campaign did not become apparent until late yesterday when the socialists and the younger voters in two precincts engaged in fistfists with members of the old machine.

EASTER OUTFITS ESCAPED FLAMES

Wellesley Girls Mourn Hall but Jubilate Because the New Hats and Clothes Were Not Burned

WELESLEY, Mass., March 18.—That more than $25,000 was saved to 1,000 girl students of Wellesley college because the fire which burned College hall there came before rather than after Easter clothing and millinery was laid in, was the estimate of some of the sufferers here today.

"We lost nearly all our clothes," one girl said today as with a crowd of her fellow schoolmates, she left for her home in the west. "But, thank goodness, the fire didn't get our Easter hats."

A meeting of the board of trustees will be held in a few days to arrange for funds to build a new college hall. The loss of the historic building and the escape uninjured of all the students has so touched Wellesley graduates that subscriptions for the new structure are expected to pour in as soon as the call is made.

CARUSO GETS $3,000 A DAY

NEW YORK, March 18.—Enrico Caruso is to receive a salary of $3,000 a night after next season. A contract signed by the noted tenor sets a new record for salaries paid to opera stars. Under the new contract Caruso will probably receive at least $200,000 for his appearance in New York season after next.

NEW PASSENGER RECORD

PARIS, March 18.—Aviator Garai established a new world's record yesterday when he ascended to a height of 2,145 feet, with seven passengers in a biplane. Passage was made near Chartres.

High School Haps

The baseball season has already begun at the high school as candidates are practicing every day to get their arms into shape. Baseball will be coached by Mr. Hassett and Mr. Fuller this year. A successful season is looked forward to as there is a wealth of material, both old and new, from which to pick a team.

This season there will be a class championship series of games, the same as for basketball. The faculty has already elected Mr. Hassett as captain for their team. The boys' literary societies will also be represented in this series.

The Poka Gama Literary society held a very interesting meeting last evening after school for the purpose of celebrating St. Patrick's Day. The program consisted of numbers by various members of the society. The program follows: follows:

Wearing of the Green—Marion Dawson.
Piano solo, "The Erlkoneig"—Charlotte Kohlhaus.
St. Patrick's Day Reading—Miss Johnson.

Vocal solo—Helen Burke.
Lecture on Ireland—Miss Desmond.

The meeting was open to anyone and a large number of high school pupils attended.

The annual inter-grade school declamatory and oratorical contest will take place at the High school auditorium next Friday evening at eight o'clock. A trophy in the shape of a big banner will be given to the school which captures first place. A great deal of enthusiasm is rife in the graded schools preliminary to the contest and a large turnout is expected by the management. In addition to the regular contestants there will be a musical program. The contest is being held under the auspices of the Lincoln Douglas Debating society, which has also donated the banner.

NEW I. C. C. CHAIRMAN

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Interstate Commerce Commissioner P. S. Harland yesterday took the chairmanship of the interstate commerce commission, succeeding Commissioner Edgar Clark. A rule of the commission adopted three years ago, provides that the commissioners shall hold the chairmanship for one year in the order of seniority.

Gone Forever Are Dyspeptic Bays of Old

The Simple, Safe, Sure Use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Bring Joy to Any Stomach Sufferer in an Easy, Comfortable, Diet-less Way

How many quiet, afraid-to-make-a-noise, unhappy homes there are due to cross, irritable, miserable, close-that-kitchen-door kind of dyspepsia sufferers. Such men and women cannot help their peevishness for they suffer terribly and should not be censured.

A stomach that is irritated, raw, rebellious and not fit to do its work is certainly the cause of constant dragging down and even excruciating agony.

It is a feeling surpassed by no other illness known to man.

No one should blame such a person for ill temper and silent moodiness. Ever and always is that dead, gone, sour tasting feeling at hand to curse every waking hour.

Dyspepsia, bad breath, gastritis, catarrh of the stomach, pains in bowels, nervousness, heartburn, belching, bloating, etc., come from wrongful conditions of digestive juices. There is nothing to correct these horrors until these juices are again replenished.

When the system exhausts its juices, when the liver, when the pancreas, the stomach become thereby unfit to furnish the proper digestive fluids, one cannot expect this same system, without aid, to do anything else than keep on making their improper digestive products.

Such a condition means all manner of suffering, and unquestionably fatal danger lurks in such delay.

There is relief in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets that means a restoration to normal health, a building up of correct digestive juices and an absolute harmlessness in the method and its result.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain qualities in just the right proportion to build up the weakened gastric juice. When the tablet reaches the stomach, it readjusts matters quickly, balances acids and alkalies and stops pain, suffering, etc.

Other ingredients have just as important effects upon the intestines as well as the stomach and thus in a remarkably short time stomach ills, indigestion, etc., disappear.

Go to your druggist today and obtain a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, price 50 cents.
